Veronica Albarran has been an ESL teacher for the last 8 years and is currently teaching low beginning level this year. She was born in California and attended North Park University. She currently lives in Lindenhurst with her son. She loves being able to help her students improve their lifestyle. She believes that learning English opens the door for better opportunities for them and their families. It makes her proud when her students are able to improve their test scores. She encourages them to practice and study every day!

When she’s not busy teaching her class, she enjoys walking, reading and watching Netflix. A great piece of advice she remembers getting is to live your life to the fullest, because life passes us by very fast. During Covid-19, she has enjoyed being able to stay home and spend time with her son.

-Nelson Mandela

Debby Strauss has been a teacher with our program for the last 3 years. She is currently teaching beginning and low intermediate ESL. She loves language and enjoys learning languages herself. She was born in Chicago and attended the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She currently lives in Highland Park with her husband and 3 children- a daughter and two sons.

She loves welcoming her students to the United States and helping to make their transition easier through language. It makes her so proud when they tell her that they are using their English outside of school. She admires her students for their dedication in coming to class and completing their homework. The advice she gives is for them to use their new language out in their community, even if they are surrounded by those using their native language.

When she isn’t busy teaching, Debby enjoys biking, running, tennis and reading. During Covid-19, she has enjoyed spending lots of time with her husband and children. One of the best pieces of advice she remembers receiving is to live each day to the fullest and don’t let fear slow you down or stop you from trying new things.
